JUNIORS TO BE HOST TO SENIORS FOR BREAKFAST

May 20 has been definitely set for the Junior-Senior breakfast this year. It will be held at Johnson's Point near Olympia, at Beacon Beach Lodge.

The program has not yet been announced but members of the two upper classes are anticipating a delightful time. It is an annual affair given by the Junior Class in honor of the outgoing seniors.

Herbert Phenice heads the committee in charge, with Georgia Johnson, Thelma Gander and Charles Guilford assisting him.

ANNOUNCEMENT

It has been announced by Mr. Gordon Alcorn that a botany exhibit will be open every day from now on, in room 108 in Science Hall, to which students and faculty are invited.

The display will be composed entirely of local flowers. Each day the collection will be added to as different flowers bloom. In this way it can be seen when the common flowers first appear. Each flower will be correctly labeled as it is placed on display.

Campus Players Begin Practice For Last Play

"You and I," Three-Act Comedy Drama, to Be Given May 22

"You and I," a three-act comedy drama by Philip Barry, is to be the last feature performance presented by the Campus Players this spring. It will be given one night only, the evening of May 22, concluding a series of three major performances staged during the season now ending.

Since the recent success of "The Fool," the dramatic department has been casting about for a play that would be of popular interest, light, humorous and would meritoriously wind up the season in the same high plane which the last performance maintained. "You and I" was definitely chosen a week ago as fulfilling the necessary requirements, it is humorously philosophical, somewhat sophisticated, especially amusing, and with a wide appeal.

Cast Chosen

The cast has been chosen and are under the personal direction of Martha Pearl Jones, head of the dramatic department, director of "The Fool," and "Cat O' Nine Tails." The cast is rather small, each character playing an important part. The players include:

Maitland White, Robert Evans; Nancy White, Ruth Arwood; Rodrick White, Charles Guilford; Veronica Duane, Alida Wingard; Geoffrey Nichols, Bruce Thomas; G. T. Warren, Morris Summers; Etta, Ruth Carter.

"You and I," produced by Richard G. Herndon and directed by Robert Milton, was first presented in New York at the Belmont Theater, on February 19th, 1923. It has had long runs wherever it has been played.

According to Morris Summers, manager of the dramatic department, the performance will be given only the one night. Some phases of the production, including admission price, have not been definitely decided upon.

SHORT PLAYS TO BE GIVEN SOON

On Monday afternoon, May 4, at four o'clock, the play production classes of the dramatic department will produce two plays. The casts and a short resume of the plays follow:

The Burglar
Edith Ethelyn Llewellyn
Mabel Gwendolyn Fox
Peggy Louise Brislin
Freda Betty Arnold
Valerie Melba Alleman
Coached by Myrle Neyhart

Mrs. Ednicott, a neighbor, has been robbed of her jewels and all the summer colony is terrorized. As the five girls talk it over they come to the decision that they don't want to go to bed. Freda, a bit braver than the rest, scoffs at their fears, until suddenly a noise is heard which they attribute to a man in the house. While Freda and the unwilling Peggy search for guns to keep the intruder until help comes, the other girls become more and more afraid. After stalling a bit the redoubtable Freda enters the room where the suspicious noises have been heard. After a moment the girls hear her scream and find out for yourself.

Feed the Brute
Mrs. Pottle Marion Sherman
Mr. Pottle Irwin Fawcett
Mrs. Wilks Vivian Henricksen
The purpose of this play is to reveal the softening influence of food on man's savage temper. The place is in the poorer section of London. Marion Sherman is the loving wife who succeeds in soothing her hungry spouse with words and savory cooking. And does he tame? As if any man were impervious to good meals.

Weiss Will Speak At Church Services

In connection with National Music Week, Karl E. Weiss, professor of piano, will speak at the regular evening service next Sunday at the First Lutheran Church, Sixth avenue and I street. Mr. Weiss has chosen for his subject "The Place of Music in the Worship Services." National Music Week is from May 3 to May 9.

THE TRAIL IS RATED HIGH BY N. S. P. A.

C. P. S. Paper Is Classified As Excellent For Second Time

For the second consecutive year and for the second time in the history of its publication, The Trail has been given the First Class Honor Rating of "excellent" in the annual contest of the National Press Association, which was held at the U. of Minnesota last month.

All papers are judged comparatively, and 894 were entered from all over the United States this year.

Under editor Al Hotchkin, last year, the paper first drew honors, and this year's staff, under the editorship of Bruce Thomas, has maintained the high rating. Four issues were demanded by the judges for four consecutive weeks, these were the three preceding and the one ending with the issue at Christmas. Two of these papers were proof read and returned as a sort of practical basis from which improvements might be made. This is the first year that this has been done.

The Trail made a total score of 735 out of a possible 1000.

The following note was sent with the wire by the contest editors:

"The judges seem to have been more critical this year since scores run uniformly lower than formerly. If your score is lower it is probably due to this—if your rating is lower, that, too, does not necessarily mean that the paper is poorer this year than last."

Having maintained the same rating for both years the staff feels especially encouraged.

BANKER BRINGS SPECIAL MESSAGE IN CHAPEL TALK

"What Does the Employer Expect of a New Employee?" was the subject of Carl E. Lindquist at the chapel service Wednesday morning. Mr. Lindquist is vice-president of the Puget Sound National and Broadway Puget Sound banks.

"All people have employers in the business world today whether they are professional or business men," said the speaker. "An employer expects honesty, neediness to say. Employees must be willing to work and learn."

To illustrate his points, Mr. Lindquist cited the banking business. Several humorous jokes prefaced the talk.

STUDENTS HEAR SINGING GROUP

To advertise the home concerts of the Men's Glee Club last night and tonight, the Monday chapel period was turned over to the organization. The group sang five numbers under the direction of John Paul Bennett, director. The numbers presented were "Hymn of the Pilgrims" by MacDowell; "Pirate Song" by High; "Open Our Eyes" by MacFarlane; Baldwin's "The Sleigh," and "The Italian Salade" by Genee. Before the last number, the members of the club sold tickets to the students and teachers.

Campus Day Is Spent in Chasing Tools

Frosh Spoil Dainty Hands for School

BY GLADYS NEFF

"What do you mean, running off with our rakes? I'll catch you."

Down the cement street, past the busy groups laboring on the parking strip, sped the two college youths. But could they really be typically collegiate? Two young men fighting over an instrument for work—work—surely belong elsewhere than on a campus.

Freshmen girls, ignorant of the merely ornamental service the young women of other years, sacrificed their white-as-a-lily hands and their polished nails quite cheerfully—even the women of the upper classes were seen to wield rakes and shovels as if they enjoyed it.

The professors had an interesting time working on their plot of park-

QUEEN LILLIAN AND COURT REIGN OVER MAY FESTIVITIES TODAY

Musical Program and Other Exercises Will Honor Mothers; Festival Will Begin at 1:30 in Auditorium of Jones Hall

The crowning of the Campus May Queen will be the outstanding feature of this year's May festival which will take place this afternoon on the inner quadrangle at 1:30.

Lillian Boyd, this year's chosen May Queen, with her court, will reign over the festivities. A program of music will be given in the auditorium followed by a processional and dances on the lawn in back of Jones Hall.

Invitations have been extended to the mothers of the students, for according to tradition the affair is given in their honor.

Services Held For Mrs. Jones

Donor of Jones Hall Passes Away After Short Illness

Mrs. Franke Tobey Jones, Tacoma philanthropist and one of Tacoma's leading citizens, passed away at her home Saturday after a short illness.

Mrs. Jones was known to C. P. S. students because of her interest in the college. Mr. Jones, who died in 1922, gave $20,000 to this institution, and in 1923 his wife added $50,000 to that gift. The same year, Mrs. Jones donated $200,000, with which Jones Hall was built as a memorial to her husband.

Mrs. Jones was recognized as one of Tacoma's seven leading citizens in December 1930. The award specifically referred to her as "having rendered distinguished service in the community and having set an example of citizenship which, if followed by others, would make Tacoma a better place."

The $150,000 Franke Tobey Jones Home, occupying a beautiful site overlooking Point Defiance park, was built by Mrs. Jones in 1923. It is a home for elderly people. Its beginning was a home for elderly people known as Resthome in a residence on North 5th street, opposite her home.

Mrs. Jones was one of Tacoma's best known pioneer women and a philanthropist whose gifts reached into many fields. Services were held last Monday in the Buckley-King funeral home and interment was made in the Tacoma Mausoleum.

In respect to Mrs. Jones, classes were dismissed during Monday afternoon.

RARE SALAMANDER TAKEN BY PROF. IN SUCCESSFUL CHASE

Rare species of salamanders are now in the biology laboratory as a result of a field trip to the Olympic Peninsula by Professor Slater and Mr. Gordon Alcorn and another trip made last week-end by Professor Slater, Howard Hubbel, and Frank Heuston.

Several Plethodon Vandykii, or Washington salamanders are among the live collection. No specimen of this kind has been captured for ten years; only six have ever been captured.

Other records are broken, too, for other species of these lizard shaped amphibians were found in counties where no one had found them before.

At the convention the Puget Sound representatives also won first place in men's oratory, second place in women's oratory, and second place in the extempore speaking contest for men.

Oxford Debate

The debate season was opened November 8, 1930, by a no-decision meeting with the English debaters, D. H. Eljelson of St. John's College, Oxford, and C. J. Crehan of the University of Liverpool, held in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church. Puget Sound was represented by Shigeo Tanabe and Arthur Martin. The question was "Resolved, that Democracy has been tried and found wanting."

A team from the Northwest Nazarene College of Nampa, Idaho, met the Puget Sound team consisting of Frank Heuston and Charles Thomas in a no-decision debate held Feb. 7, 1931, on the Puget Sound campus. The question was "Resolved, that the nations should a-

Debaters Finish Excellent Year

Win Most of Debates During Season

BY FRED STOCKBRIDGE
The debate victory over Whitman College, April 21, on the question of the social benefits of chain store retailing, marked the end of an extensive and successful season of forensic activity for the College of Puget Sound.

There were 21 contests for the men's varsity teams, of which two were without decision and 13 were won by the Puget Sound representatives. The women had 14 debates in their schedule, of which they won six. The freshmen had dual debates with the University of Washington freshmen and with Centralia Junior College; in the former no decisions were given, and in the latter the victories were divided.

At the Northwest Regional Convention of Pi Kappa Delta Chapters located in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, which was held at Linfield College, the College of Puget Sound won first place in men's debate and first place in debate by mixed teams of men and women. At the convention the Puget Sound representatives also won first place in men's oratory, second place in women's oratory, and second place in the extempore speaking contest for men.

Gamma Rose Is Featured in Clever Appointments

The smart programs were of white suede and carried out the sorority colors. The silver crest of the group was mounted on a rose shaded background. Favors of rose buttoniers were presented to the guests.

More than two score young folk entered into the gaiety of the evening after which a late supper was served at the small tables centered with bowls of iris, blue bells and tulips.

SEASON'S SCENES SEEN BY SUE

It is said in fashionable circles that every creator in Paris shows a scarf for evening wear. Some are smoked, others are like capelets. Sue has decided not to leave scarfs from the plans for her summer wardrobe.

If you look well in tailored things, you will approve of the new suits which are practical, simple, smart. Sue favors one that features a sleeveless frock in a lighter color worn with belted cardigan jacket.

Sue Spurs Dick To Replenish Wardrobe

Since Sue sees the scenes for the girls, Dick has been doing his duty for the collegiate youths. Spring fever has spurred him to action (believe it or not). He needed some new clothes—the old cords were beginning to look rather shabby even for college cords. Maybe there was a reason—maybe it even was Sue—but at least here are the results of his finds.

Dick couldn't play tennis, but he did need a new sweater so he could begin to learn how. At Klopstein's he found just what he wanted—all-wool for only $3.50. Dolled up in that he felt as though he could easily challenge Bill Tilden himself.

He didn't really need a new pair of shoes but who could resist McDonald's bargain in sport oxfords, least of all collegiate Dick. "I got them for only $6.50," he proudly told Sue, "aren't they a pipe cinch?"

To settle the problem of new shirts for his wardrobe, Dick went to Jensen's. There he found just what he wanted—the Arotone. There was a special sale on and since collegiate pocketbooks often lack as though the traditional elephant has stepped on them, Dick was only too glad to take advantage of their offer of three for $7.00.

He settled a very important problem when he bought his new spring suit at Hy Mandles. Their style and price was right. He got just what he wanted. When Sue saw him all dolled up in his new outfit, she actually took back some of the harsh words she had said to him and consented to go with him to the hop that night.

WOMEN START SPRING SPORTS

The women's sports calendar includes two major sports for the next two weeks. Archery and tennis are in full swing and will wind up the 1930-31 sport season.

May 15 has been set as the day when class archery teams will be chosen. Competition is very keen as the squads include only four places and alternates. Scheduled matches begin one week later on May 20.

Each noon hour the field and archery equipment are at the disposal of those turning out. Miss Martin stresses again that it is very necessary for much practice and that a minimum of five practices is required to make a team.

Archery is new to many C. P. S. coeds, particularly the freshmen. Upperclassmen have in school several of last year's crack shots who are giving the newcomers a real challenge. Mary Wescott, Fay Sherwood and Margaret Alleman are former archers turning out this year.

Membership on a team merits 100 points toward an athletic letter.

The meet was one of the fastest affairs ever held at the Bellingham school and until the final relay was run the outcome was a toss up.

Doty, Logger sprint man, first put the Loggers in the scoring column by annexing the 100 and the 220 in record time. He came back later to score first place in the broad jump and gave the Puget Sound team a decided lead.

Bright, Normal distance man, started the Vikings to victory by taking the mile in excellent time and then nosing out McCoy by a few scant feet to chalk up five points in the two mile.

The Vikings held a slight edge in the sprints by placing several men in these events to the Loggers one or two. The field events were about even. Henderson, versatile weight man, took first in the discus and the shotput for the Loggers.

The teachers were able to grab all three places in the javelin and scored heavily in the broad jump, high jump and pole vault.

The outstanding upset was in the hurdle races. The teachers were slated to take a first in the lows and highs. Weick took the high event in the record time of 16 flat, while Bates broke his previous time by three seconds to cop the lows.

The Loggers showed a well balanced team, taking eight first places to the Normal's six. Doty was the high point winner for the local school, scoring 15½ points followed by Henderson who registered 11 points.

Class B High Schools of County to Compete; Nine Schools Entered; Lettermen's Club in Charge

Track and field athletes from Class B high schools of Pierce County will compete on the College of Puget Sound athletic field Saturday afternoon in the first meet ever to be sponsored by the college. The first event will get under way at 2 p. m. and all events for prep athletes will be staged.

High schools to be entered include Ashford, Carbonado, Eatonville, Fife, Gig Harbor, Kapowsin, Orting, Roy, and Vaughn. From these schools nearly 150 students will be entered in the track and field events.

The meet is being sponsored for the Class B Puget Sound league by the Lettermen's Club of the college. Fred LePenske, president of the club, is general chairman of arrangements and is assisted by the entire membership of the organization.

To the high school taking first place in the meet the Kimball Sporting Goods Co. of Tacoma will present a silver loving cup. All men to place first, second and third will receive ribbons as prizes.

Rubeen Johnson, Russ Kasselmann, Dean Pettibone, Ted Nakamura and Paul Perdue will constitute the mound staff for the southern trip. Which of the five will work in today's game is not known, but Johnson, Kasselmann and Pettibone are the likeliest to start.

Women's Tennis Team Plays First

Alleman, Martin, Porter and Arnold Will Represent C. P. S.

Meeting a team from the Yakima Valley Junior College, the college women's varsity tennis team will open inter-school competition on the C. P. S. courts Saturday morning.

Unless challenge matches the latter part of the week change the ladder, the girls who will represent Puget Sound in this meet are: No. 1—Margaret Alleman; No. 2—Betty Martin; No. 3—Jane Porter; No. 4—Betty Arnold, and No. 5—Melba Alleman.

The intermediate girls' tennis tournament was concluded last Tuesday with Josie North defeating Alice Berry, 7-5 and 6-2, to capture high honors. These girls advanced to the finals after hard-fought

PUGET SOUND BASEBALL SQUAD PLANS MADE FOR SEVEN GAMES IN OREGON

Twelve Men to Make Trip; Loggers to Meet Five College Clubs in Heaviest Schedule Ever Booked for One Week

With the heaviest schedule ever arranged for one week of play before them, the College of Puget Sound varsity baseball team will leave Tacoma Sunday for a trip into Oregon. Seven games have been booked for six days, with five of the encounters being Pacific Northwest Conference tilts.

semi-final matches, Alice Berry defeating Mildred Schaad, and Josie North defeating Arlene Elsbree.

A tournament is soon to be arranged between the finalists and semi-finalists of the intermediate round, and the lower division varsity girls. Many close and interesting matches will, undoubtedly, result from the above tournament.

Anyone still wishing to sign up for the girls' doubles tournament may do so, as these matches will not be played for a week yet. Only one new pairing, Arlene Elsbree and Elsie Korpela, has been added to the list this week, bringing the total to four couples. As last year's varsity are ineligible for competition this year, there is an equal and good chance for all aspirants.

C. P. S. Golfers In Match With U. of W. Frosh

Will Play This Afternoon on Country Club Course

The College of Puget Sound golf team will meet the University of Washington frosh this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The match will be the only home match this season and is to be played at the Country Club course.

The Huskies boast of a strong team and are determined to give the Loggers their first defeat of the season. The Logger squad will be composed of frosh golfers with the exception of Captain Renschler, who is a sophomore. Although the maroon and white team are hoped to be defeated, they will do their utmost to match divots with the Husky stars.

On May 15th the Puget Sounders will play a return match on the University course.

The Logger team will trek down to Oregon next week to meet Albany, Thursday, May 7, and are tentatively engaged to meet Columbia U. the following day, Friday, May 8. Nothing has been found out yet of the Oregon schools, but the Loggers will be provided with their share of competition.

So far the C. P. S. team has defeated Washington State College and Gonzaga U. decisively and are determined to keep their slate clean. The probable lineup against the Husky babes is the following: Renschler, Keuss, Sinclair and McGuire.

Class meetings were held today during the chapel period. Routine business was carried on and short programs were presented in some of the meetings.

Twelve men will accompany Coach Floyd Hite on the trip. The men making the trip are: Dean Pettibone, Fred LePenske and Milt Woodard, outfielders; Ed Kenrick, John Maruca, Joe Tomko, Lou Spadafore, infielders; Burdette Sterling, catcher; Russ Kasselmann, Paul Perdue, Rube Johnson and Ted Nakamura, pitchers. Kasselmann is a utility infielder when not on the mound. Johnson alternates with the catcher, and Dean Pettibone, also is a member of the pitching staff when not in the outfield.

The Oregon trip will take the traveling squad to the camp of five colleges and universities. Monday afternoon the Loggers play Columbia at Portland. Pacific University will be played at Forest Grove in a conference game on Tuesday. Two games are on the slate with Wallamette University, the first being played Wednesday and the second meeting is scheduled for the following day. This pair of games will count in the conference standings. A double bill with Linfield College at McMinnville has been arranged for Friday to complete the conference games booked for the trip. Saturday the Loggers will return to Portland where they will play the North Pacific Dental College to complete a home and home engagement with the Dentists.

Much depends on the outcome of the five conference tilts. If by chance the Loggers make a clean sweep of the schedule they will be western division champions of the conference and will meet Whitman College at Walla Walla for the conference championship. The team will return to Tacoma late Saturday night.

Loggers to Meet Viking Trackmen Matches Today

The College of Puget Sound will meet the Ellensburg Normal School in a dual track meet, Friday, May 8, on the local field. The meet is scheduled for 2:30.

Coach Nicholson is bringing a strong aggregation and should tax the Loggers to the utmost to cop the meet.

The Teachers chief scoring ace is "Wild Bill" Stears, sprinter. Early performances show him to be exceptionally fast and he should give the Logger men the stiffest competition with which they have contended.

Coach Seward will probably use his entire squad in an endeavor to uncover some potential point winners for the first conference meet to be held a week later with Albany.

A FRIEND PASSES

The College of Puget Sound has lost a true friend with the death of Mrs. Franke Tobey Jones last Saturday. Not only the donor of Jones Hall to C. P. S., she was actively engaged in making Tacoma a better place in which to live, and was the donor of the Franke Tobey Jones Home for elderly people. She has given countless thousands of dollars to other worthy causes in the City of Tacoma.

Not only has the College of Puget Sound lost a true friend, but the City of Tacoma has lost a helpful citizen. Few persons have done as much for the community in which they live. Her home was in Tacoma, her interests were in Tacoma and Tacoma was proud to have her in the city.

—D. W. H.

SPAIN A REPUBLIC

This is a stirring time in Madrid, and every small child is a king. For 981 years Spain has been a monarchy, and now it is a republic.

Alfonso XIII abdicated his throne because he had to. He is the last of the famous Bourbon rulers. His family rose into prominence more than 1,000 years ago with the rise to fame of one Baron Aymar of ninth century fame. It came into possession of the throne of France with the ascent of Henry IV in 1589. Philip V was the first of the line to rule in Spain. He came in 1700 through the influence of that most famous of all Bourbons, Louis XIV of France. Still another branch of the Bourbon family ruled in the old kingdom of Naples beginning with Charles II in 1735. For ten centuries the Bourbons have been famous. For five centuries they have been kings. They lost control of France in 1789, gained it again and lost it with the upheaval of 1850. They lost out in Naples with the wedding of a unified Italy under the great Camillo Benso Cavour circa 1870. They lost control in Spain when Alfonso XIII heeded the overwhelming will of the Spanish people and abdicated on April 14, 1931.

Spain is, then, a republic, but its people will find that they are not all kings. Government difficulties, while they have advanced to the stage where kings and monarchical systems are inadequate, are not solved merely when republic's are declared.

Nevertheless Spain's leaders have taken an excellent course in setting up various republics within its national organization to meet the needs of its differently situated people. The people are yet a long way from internal quiet, but their forward movement is a powerful one.—Southern California Trojan.

SUING THE PROFESSORS

There is considerable difference of opinion about the case of the girl student in the teachers' college of Miami University who brought suit to compel the college to let her remain when she had been fired for low grades.

The girl won her point temporary, obtaining a court injunction on April 20 which allowed her to continue attending her classes until the final hearing. If she wins the ultimate decision, every college in America will soon have a real problem on its hands.

Presidents and deans will be told where to get off. Fired students will refuse to stay fired. The divine right of young people to attend college will be insisted on to the bitter end. Low grades will lose their terrors. "Flunk" notices will mean nothing. It may be possible to send professors to jail for giving low grades.

The cause of education may not be served, but there will be more security in college life.

The above clipping from The Tacoma Daily Ledger brings up a new problem in college education. About all we can say is, "Pity the poor professors if this case is decided in favor of the student who was flunked out."

There never was a student, who after being flunked out of college, admitted the fault to be entirely his. Deep in the heart of the flunked student is the conviction that the professor must have held some grudge against him. Few are willing to admit that they have not studied enough to pass their courses.

Undoubtedly there are cases in which some personal element has entered into grading, but these are exceptions and few in number.

In the future the question of whether a student may be dismissed for poor grades may become acute in the state institutions, but in the privately endowed colleges and universities, there is no reason to believe that any student would have reason to stir up trouble over dismissal because of flunking.

Today we witness the outstanding event of the college year. The crowning of the May Queen and the clowning of the May Duke.

The May Duke will be ably assisted by the two Heralds (Cicero Coplan and Ceaser Brown).

After a delightful spring program in the beautifully decorated interior of Jones Hall, the audience will move to the lawn in back of Jones Hall, there to behold an awe inspiring spectacle.

At this point twenty fair but freckled damsels will trip lightly o'er the green bearing the crepe.

Queen Lil II now enters walking on the arm of Duke LePenske, followed by a flourish of trumpets. (Music please).

Strongarm Duke LePenske is preceded by several flower girls easing the path with scattered rose petals. (Look out for thorns, Duke!)

After a demonstration of Adagio dancing by the Queen and Duke they seat themselves lightly on the royal park bench. (Keep off the Grass!)

They then witness a charming interpretation of aesthetic dancing by Olive Rees and Angel Reitha Gehri daintily garbed in sheets.

Hairy Slatter is thrown for a ten yard loss in an attempted off tackle buck. (Better luck next time, Hairy.)

Bedecked in pastel clothing the defeated May Queens now enter amid the cheering of fond parents and the beaming multitudes, and dance sedately about the ribboned May Pole.

The first women's debate, which was held Feb. 15, was lost to Washington State College. The question used was, "Resolved, that Gandhi has been a benefit to India." The Puget Sound team composed of Bonita Reeder and Georgia Johnson took the affirmative stand.

Puget Sound lost to Pacific University in a home encounter, Feb. 19, on the free trade question. Shigeo Tanabe and Charles Thomas, representing C. P. S., took the affirmative of the same question and won over Weber College of Ogden, Utah.

A home and home debate for the freshman squad was held Feb. 25, with Centralia Junior College when the negative team consisting of Charles Thomas and Frank Heuston were victorious at Centralia while the affirmative team, Robert Burrill and Bill McCallum, were defeated at home.

Loggers Defeat Bellingham
Bellingham Normal School was defeated by C. P. S. in both the men's and women's debates held in Tacoma, March 3. Frank Heuston and Charles Thomas represented Puget Sound on the negative side of the free trade question, while Pearl Disher and Elsie Mitchell held the affirmative against the Bellingham women.

Another dual freshman debate was held Mar. 6, with University of Washington freshmen. The same men who represented the college in the previous freshman debates made up the teams, the affirmative pair invading Seattle and the negative remaining at home. No decisions were returned on these debates.

Puget Sound women defeated a team sent by Oregon State Normal School March 11. Bonita Reeder and Georgia Johnson of C. P. S. took the affirmative stand.

Bellingham Normal defeated C. P. S. in the return meet with that school at Bellingham March 17. Puget Sound debaters were Melba

At this point the score stood 30-love in favor of Duke LePenske.

Alleman and Bernice Radis, negative; Arthur Martin and Bill McCallum, affirmative.

Both men's and women's teams met and defeated the College of Idaho, March 20. Puget Sound representatives were Arthur Martin and Shigeo Tanabe, Pearl Disher and Elsie Mitchell. Both Puget Sound teams took the negative. On the afternoon of the same day, Charles Thomas and Herman Mattson, of the affirmative team, lost to Southwestern University of Los Angeles in the first men's debate of the Pacific Coast tour. In the evening the same team triumphed over California Christian College of Los Angeles.

The women's team, consisting of Bonita Reeder and Georgia Johnson, had previously met and defeated College of Pacific on March 18. On Mar. 20, they lost to the University of California at Los Angeles. On March 21, the men's team defeated Redlands University of Redlands, California, while the women lost their debate with that institution. The University of Southern California won from the C. P. S. men Mar. 23.

Pi Kappa Delta Convention
The Pi Kappa Delta Convention which was held at Linfield College next claimed the debaters' attention. Five debates were held with C. P. S. in the preliminary elimination in the men's debate class. In these debates Charles Thomas and Herman Mattson were on the affirmative team, while Arthur Martin and Shigeo Tanabe made up the negative team. The affirmative team defeated College of Idaho, both teams defeated Linfield, the affirmative won from Montana State, while the negative lost to that college. In the finals, the College of Idaho was defeated for the first place by the C. P. S. affirmative team.

In the women's class, debates were held with College of Idaho, Linfield, and Intermountain Union. The College of Idaho encounter gave the only victory for the Puget Sound teams in this class.

The affirmative team in mixed debate consisted of Georgia Johnson and Herman Mattson, while the negative team was made up of Elsie Mitchell and Arthur Martin. The negative team defeated both Linfield and the College of Idaho, while the affirmative team won over Linfield. These three victories gave

C. P. S. first place in mixed debate.

Evans First in Oratory

Robert Evans won first place in oratory; Isobel Ray placed second in women's oratory; Shigeo Tanabe placed second in extemporaneous speaking. High point score in the convention was won by Linfield College with a one-point lead over the College of Puget Sound.

The last debate of the Pacific Coast tour was won by both men and women, from Pacific University, on March 30. The men's squad won over the College of Pacific, April 1. The free trade question was the one used on the whole tour.

Puget Sound lost to the University of Arizona at home, April 8, on the question, "Resolved, that the expansion of the chain store is detrimental to the best interests of the American people." Frank Heuston and Bill McCallum made up the team which took the affirmative side. Whitman was defeated by the same team April 22, in the final debate of the season.

STUDENT LETTERS

Editor, The Trail:

I wonder if you will help me by putting this plea to the students, in the next issue. From time to time, deputations teams go out from the college, and take charge of the church services in various churches. Frequently, we go to other towns, and we naturally need cars to take us there and bring us back. There are few cars among the students who usually go on these trips, and we should greatly appreciate such help from other students of the college. We guarantee to pay your gasoline, and there is usually some excitement between the time you leave and the time you return. There will be deputations teams going out every Sunday from now until the end of the year. Most of them will go in the evenings, but some will go in the mornings. We should be very grateful if the students will take cars, and help us out. The students who can do this should give their names to John Moffatt, Robert Burrill, or Ruth Carter, who constitute our transportation committee.

Thank you,
FRANCES SPENCER.

FUNDAMENTALS are the keynotes to success. Your football team learns first to block, to tackle, to run interference. Your basketball player must be able to pivot and shoot before playing against competition. Your every team must conquer first their foundation moves. Once fundamentals are mastered actual play becomes true pleasure. Confidence goes with the knowledge that the frame-work is sound and secure.

Thrift Week comes to emphasize the fact that Saving is the great fundamental in the game of Future Financial Happiness. Your basketball aspirant, possessing in high degree physical rhythm and action, running and passing ability, yet not a master of shot-making, is unprepared for the crisis of the game. He fails when most is expected of him.

It is the same with the young man in the game of life. He may possess excellent physical and mental qualities. Through the years those fundamentals he carefully developed. But he, too, fails in the crisis if he has neglected the fundamental of thrift; the ability to conserve one's resources for the future.

Let Thrift Week remind you. Save now that tomorrow you may secure and take advantage of your schooling, your necessities, your pleasures or your opportunities.
